Elliptical Commencement marks a first in GW history

by Paul Connolly
Senior News Editor

The GW class of 1992 will join the ranks of 170 previous graduating classes on Sunday, but the graduates may not realize that Spring Commencement was quite a different scene for the class of '24—1824 that is.

Known then as Columbian College, GW graduated its first students in 1824, three years after its founding. The campus was then 46 and one-half acres of land between 14th and 15th streets on the north side of Florida Avenue, a location which came to be known as "College Hill." The graduation ceremony on Dec. 15, 1824 was not held there, but rather at the Presbyterian Meeting House at 14th and F streets.

The list of speakers, degree recipients and even audience members at the first graduation was an all-star cast. The featured guest of the Commencement was none other than the Marquis de Lafayette. The United States government invited him to this country to visit the land he helped liberate. Lafayette arrived in October, and the young District of Columbia had been paying tribute to him since his arrival. GW attached lights to the main building and a star on the cupola.

Also attending the first Commencement were many who now have a building at GW named after them: then Secretary of State John Quincy Adams, House Speaker Henry Clay and Secretary of War John Calhoun, in addition to Supreme Court justices, members of Congress, foreign dignitaries and even President Monroe.

You might ask how all these officials and the class of 1824 squeezed into a place called the Presbyterian Meeting House. The answer is simple: there were only three graduates. Two of the three seniors delivered speeches to the audience at the ceremony.

This year's graduation on the Ellipse will be in the shadow of the Washington Monument, which did not exist at the time of the first graduation. Although the Ellipse will be a new site for Commencement, GW is no stranger to this part of town.

In 1821, GW relocated from College Hill to downtown Washington (I 5th and H streets) and changed its name to Columbian University. In 1904, an act of Congress officially changed the name to The George Washington University. The school then began to migrate to its current location.

Since then, GW's graduations have been held in the University Yard, Constitution Hall, Lisner Hall, Smith Center and National Theater.

Follow these helpful hints for no-stress graduation

by Lisa Leiter
Managing Editor

University Marshal Jill Kasle said if you miss Commencement May 10, you will miss the event of the century, but added that graduates and their parents should adhere to some helpful hints to make the weekend more enjoyable.

Special Assistant to the Vice President for Administrative and Information Services Lynn Shipway said people should leave their cars at home—or wherever they stay in the Washington, D.C. area—and either walk or take the Metro to campus. Shuttle buses will run from I Street between 21st and 22nd to the Ellipse and back from 8 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

She added that limited parking will be available on campus and at the Ellipse for those who do want to drive. GW will give each graduate one free parking permit.

Parking availability and the following information are also detailed in the Commencement guides distributed to graduates last week.

In the event of "severe inclement weather," Shipway said there will be two ceremonies in the Smith Center at 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The first ceremony will be for Columbian College of Arts and Sciences, Graduate School of Arts and Sciences and the Elliott School of International Affairs. The second ceremony will be for the School of Business and Public Management, the School of Education and Human Development, the School of Engineering and Applied Sciences and the School of Medicine and Health Sciences.

People may call the rain plan hot line, 994-5050, May 6-10, which will indicate any change in the site of Commencement, Shipway said. She added that a final site decision will be made early (5 or 6 a.m.) on May 10.

Shipway also suggested that graduates and their guests wear comfortable clothes and shoes, and bring an umbrella to the Ellipse if it looks like it may rain. Both Kasle and Shipway said people who do not have tickets are welcome to bring lawn chairs and blankets.

and blankets. Approximately 16,000 chairs will be set up on the Ellipse, and when the audience looks to the left they will see the Washington Monument and to the right the back of the White House.

In order to control crowding, Kasle suggested graduates and their families attend the receptions designated for their schools following the Commencement ceremony. CCAS, ESIA and GSAS will hold their receptions on the University Yard, and all other schools' receptions will be held throughout the Marvin Center.

Both Kasle and Shipway said some surprises have been planned, but refused to elaborate on what will happen.

GW to bestow three honorary degrees

by Jen Batog
Assistant News Editor

Oakland Tribune Editor and Publisher Robert Maynard, United Negro College Fund President Emeritus Christopher Edley Sr. and artist Helen Frankenthaler will receive honorary degrees at GW's Spring Commencement exercises May 10, University Marshal Jill Kasle said.

Maynard, a Harvard University graduate, will receive an honorary humane letters degree, Kasle said. Maynard was a reporter for the York Gazette and Daily from 1961 to 1967. He also worked for The Washington Post for 10 years (1967 to 1977) as an editorial writer, a national correspondent and an associate editor. In 1977, he founded the Institute for Journalism Education, which he also chaired until 1979.

Maynard became editor and publisher of the Oakland Tribune in 1981 and bought the paper in 1983.

Throughout his career, he has been a member of the board of directors of the Newspaper Advertising Bureau, the National Advisory Council, the Associated Press, the Council of Foreign Relations, the Vesper Society and the Foundation for American Communications.

He currently serves on the board of directors for the Pulitzer Prize, the Rockefeller Foundation, the U.S. Supreme Court Historical Society and the Urban Strategies Council.

In addition to the degree he will receive from GW, Maynard holds honorary degrees from York College, Colby College, Grand View College and Dominican College.

Edley, UNCF president from 1973 to 1990, will receive an honorary public service degree, Kasle said.

He graduated Magna Cum Laude from Howard University in 1949 and from Harvard Law School in 1953. Edley began his law career at the office of Lewis Tanner Moore, Esq., where he worked for one year. In 1954, he became an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia.

Frankenthaler will receive a Doctor of Fine Arts degree, Kasle said. Frankenthaler graduated from Bennington College in 1949, and was a school trustee from 1967 to 1982.

He also served as a trial prosecutor and chief of appellate division.

Edley returned to active law practice in 1956 at the firm of Moore, Lightfoot and Edley. From 1963 to 1973, he worked as the program officer for government and law for the Ford Foundation.

He is a member of the American Bar Association and the National Bar Association. Edley currently serves on the President's Drug Advisory Council, the Schomburg Commission for the Preservation of Black Culture and is a fellow at the National Academy of Public Administration. His board memberships include the National Association for the Advancement for Colored People Legal Defense Fund Inc. and the Citizens Research Foundation.

Edley has received numerous awards including the UNCF Frederick D. Patterson Award, Howard University's Distinguished Alumni Award, the Humanitarian Father of the Year Award, the Outstanding Achievement Award from Ohio State University and the Philadelphia Commission on Human Relations' Distinguished Service Award.

He holds honorary degrees from Amherst College, University of New Haven, Lynchburg College, Huston-Tillotson College, and Baruch College.

Frankenthaler will receive a Doctor of Fine Arts degree, Kasle said. Frankenthaler graduated from Bennington College in 1949, and was a school trustee from 1967 to 1982.

In 1968, she became the first woman elected as a fellow at Calhoun College. She has been a member of the National Institute of Arts and Letters, the National Council on the Arts, National Endowment for the Arts, the American Academy and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Frankenthaler was vice chancellor of the American Academy in 1991.

Frankenthaler has received honorary degrees from Skidmore College, Smith College and Moore College of Art.

Five distinguished alumni to be honored for achievements

by Maren Feltz

News Editor

Five GW graduates will be honored with Distinguished Alumni Achievement Awards at a dinner May 9 and at the Spring Commencement ceremony May 10.

Teddy Gray Allen, Lieutenant General in the U.S. Army; Edward W. Gnehm, Jr., U.S. ambassador to Kuwait; Thomas F. Meaney, president and trustee of the American Board of Radiology; Patricia A. E. Rodgers, director of Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) and John William Snow, president, chief executive officer and chairman of CSX Corporation, are this year's recipients of the awards.

Assistant Director of Alumni Relations Patty Chamberlain said each year a selection committee representing the General Alumni Association chooses up to five individuals to receive the award.

"The selection committee looks for people who have achieved success in their fields," Chamberlain said. The committee reviews the nominations and chooses the people they feel are most worthy, she added. Past recipients include Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Colin Powell, Pennsylvania Gov. Robert Casey, and former FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Allen graduated from GW in 1974 with a master's degree in education. He is currently director of the Defense Security Assistance Agency. Allen has held a number of command and staff positions including aviation group commander and commanding general, 101st Airborne Division, Fort Campbell, KY, and has been the recipient of several military honors including the Silver Star and the Distinguished Service Medal.

Gnehm received both his bachelor's degree in 1966 and his master's degree in 1968 from the Elliott School of International Affairs. He also served as student body president while at GW, according to Chamberlain. Before Gnehm assumed his duties as ambassador, Iraq invaded Kuwait. During the Gulf War, he was a liaison between Washington, D.C. and the exiled Kuwait government. Gnehm previously served as deputy assistant secretary of state for near Eastern and South Asian affairs, where he was responsible for directing and coordinating U.S. foreign policy for the Arabian Peninsula and Gulf States: Iraq, Iran, Jordan, Syria and Lebanon.

Meaney earned his M.D. from the School of Medicine and Health Sciences in 1953, and is one of the most distinguished diagnostic radiologists in the country, according to a University press release. He spent 31 years at the Cleveland Clinic, where he served as Chief of Radiology. Meaney has been widely published in professional journals and served as chairman of the Board of Chancellors and president of the American College of Radiology.

Rodgers graduated in 1975 with a bachelor's degree from Columbian College of Arts and Sciences, and earned her master's in education and human development in 1984. As director of VISTA, Rodgers oversees the activities of 2,800 volunteers serving in more than 600 community projects addressing poverty in the United States. Before assuming her position at VISTA, Rodgers served as an assistant to the executive director of the Interagency Council on the Homeless at the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Snow earned a Juris Doctor degree from the National Law Center in 1967 and is now responsible for the nation's third largest rail system, the largest U.S.-flag container ship line and the largest barge carrier. Before joining CSX, Snow was vice president for governmental affairs with Chessie System, Inc. and an administrator with the U.S. Department of Transportation. Snow has taught at the University of Maryland, the University of Virginia and at the NLC.

Chamberlain said a "recognition wall" with information about the Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award recipients will be on display on the south wall of the Visitor's Center.

Skinner to keynote spring '92 graduates

by Scott Maikkula

Hatchet Staff Writer

White House Chief of Staff Samuel K. Skinner will speak and receive an honorary degree at the Commencement ceremony May 10 on the Ellipse.

Skinner, former U.S. secretary of transportation for three years, was sworn in as chief of staff on Dec. 16, 1991. He was asked to speak at Commencement because GW "wanted an Ellipse-quality speaker," according to University Marshal Jill Kasle.

Skinner graduated from the University of Illinois in 1960 with a bachelor's degree in accounting. He was a lieutenant in the U.S. Army during 1960-61 and in 1966, he graduated from DePaul University Law School.

In 1975, President Gerald R. Ford appointed Skinner U.S. Attorney for Northern Illinois. Between 1977 and 1989, he practiced law as a senior partner of a Chicago law firm. From 1984 to 1988, Skinner served as vice chairman of the President's Commission on Organized Crime.

As a young man, Skinner was an Eagle Scout. He received the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award from the Boy Scouts of America. In 1991, Skinner was awarded the National Father of the Year Award by the National Father's Day Committee. Skinner has also "received numerous honorary degrees," according to a White House statement.

White House officials said Skinner was unavailable for comment.

day. The Chorus sings from a broad range of music including traditional military music, pop, Broadway, folk and classical music. The Distinguished Alumni Achievement Award winners will be honored at a black-tie dinner Saturday at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Commencement ceremonies will be held on the Ellipse beginning at 9:00 a.m. Sunday. Shipway said unified graduation may present some unanticipated problems.

"Anytime you put 16,000 people in a single place there will be some frustration . . ." she said. "It will be fun for everyone to see how many students there are. Suddenly you have a sense of how big the University really is."

Following the graduation ceremony, mascots George and Martha Washington will lead the graduates on a six block parade route back to campus, Shipway said. The parade will include bagpipers, the color guard, graduates and other members of the University community. Friends and family of the graduates are also encouraged to follow along, Shipway said.

Shipway said the campus will be decorated with banners and flags to identify the University. "We hope the place will look a little festive," she said. Various receptions will be held for each school, and have been designated to provide a meeting place for graduates, faculty and families on campus.

Details for Commencement weekend can be found in the booklet, "A Guide to Commencement," available at information centers on campus.

COMMENCEMENT UPDATE

COMMENCEMENT SURVIVAL TIPS

All May 10 Graduates and guests should remember the following to ensure a fun and easy commencement!

- ◆ Bring your graduation tickets and information book with you to the ceremony (graduates do not need tickets for themselves).
- ◆ Bring your cap and gown to the ceremony. No regalia will be available on the day of the ceremony on campus or at the Ellipse.
- ◆ If weather conditions are severe, please call the Rain Plan hotline on the morning of the ceremony to see if the Rain Plan has been called. The Rain Plan Hotline number is (202) 994-5050.
- ◆ If the weather looks threatening, bring an umbrella and rain gear. Advise your guests to do the same.
- ◆ Since parking is limited, graduates and guests should arrive early to find a parking space. The Commencement parking permit must be presented at all designated parking locations. Graduates and their guests might want to consider alternative transportation to campus and use of the shuttle buses to the Ellipse from campus to avoid parking a car.
- ◆ Graduates should be at the Ellipse by 9:00am. The Academic Processions will begin promptly at 9:30am and the ceremony will start at 10:00am. Don't miss it!
- ◆ Guests should remember that there will be a lot of walking and the ceremony is on grass. Everyone is encouraged to wear comfortable, flat-heeled shoes.
- ◆ There will be a parade back to campus after the ceremony. Since this is the simplest way to get 16,000 people back to campus in time for the receptions, we hope everyone will choose to participate. Shuttle bus service will be available after the ceremony for those who do not participate in the parade. Guests who have parked at the Ellipse and wish to march back to campus will be able to use the shuttle bus after the receptions to get back to their cars. The shuttle buses will run until 3:30pm.
- ◆ Receptions will take place on campus following the ceremony. Doctoral students will receive their diplomas at their school's reception: Bachelor and Master students may pick up their diploma cases at the receptions.

The following are the reception locations:

CCAS, GSAS, ESIA University Yard

SBPM Marvin Center first floor

Man searching for his own identity moves into small, rural, South Carolina town far removed from 1969 modern conveniences. Tickets $23-32. For more information, call 347-4833.

"HOT MIKADO"

May 5-July 12. Ford's Theatre, 511 10th St., NW, 638-2941. Freewheeling, multi-cultural, jazz/gospel adaptation of Gilbert & Sullivan classic. Music is wild mixture of rock, gospel, jazz, blues, & swing with entertaining combination of comedy, energetic dancing, & virtuoso singing. Tickets $23-32. For tickets, call Ticketmaster at 432-SEAT or (800)551-SEAT. For more information, call 347-4833.

"MEASURE FOR MEASURE"

May 5-July 12. Shakespeare Theatre at Lansberg, 450 7th St., NW, 546-4000. Fascinating & ambiguous Elizabethan "dark" comedy is modern in spirit as ruler puts own government on trial, uncovering hypocrisy & excess, emphasizing need for personal & political equilibrium. Tickets $24-42. For information, call 547-1122.

Grads may be ready to close their books for a while, but you can still head down to The Folger Shakespeare Library on Capitol Hill where rare & glorious books closed long ago are on display. Shown here, "THE CONSPIRACY OF CATILINE" by Constantinus Felicitus c. 1560 from the exhibit, "Fine & Historic Bookbindings".
